Autism Home Base Durham looking for Mentors

Autism Home Base Durham and the members." (AHBD) is seeking volunteer friends and mentors to hang out and have fun with their members, adults (18+) on the autism spectrum.

"We are looking for volunteers to come out January to June at least once a week to a program as a friend or mentor to a member," said Judy Hansen, AHBD. "We are looking for volunteers between 21-35 years of age who are interested in gaming, bowling, sports, music - or another interest they would like to share."

As part of a research project with Trent University, Hansen says "they would like to find how volunteers work with members and what works best for the volunteers

"Our goal is to help reduce social isolation for our members and the families," she says.

"We don't know if our members will get attached. What we would like to happen is that there is a connection and our members have a new friend."

As this is a research project it is important that interested volunteers are able to commit from January – June 2020. "We have various opportunities during the day or in the evening," she said. "With many opportunities in Clarington."

"This is a perfect opportunity to gain valuable experience working with adults with autism," adds Hansen. "We will provide a letter outlining the program and the volunteer's contribution. The experience will look great on a resume."

If you are over 21 and interested in this opportunity go to homebasedurham.ca and click on the button to apply to be a Volunteer Mentor. Once you have completed the survey, someone will be in-touch for a brief telephone interview and an invite to an Orientation Session.

"We are always looking to create opportunities where our members are inspired to discover new interests, engage in the community, build friendships, and develop lifelong supports," said Hansen.

THE GOOD WORD

BY BRIAN COLVILLE

Book Review: Every Saturday from April to November, the old Kirby Church throws open the doors to reading fans who just love the thrill of finding that perfect book or books for their reading pleasure, at a price that won't break the bank.

The 39 Clues by Gordon Korman

Thirteen year old Dan Cahill and his older sister Amy believe that they belonged to the world's most powerful family. They also thought that the search for 39 clues leading to the source of that power was finished. They were even beginning to think they had won. Amy and Dan were wrong.

One by one the calls for help start coming in from locations around the world. Cahills and their friends and allies are being kidnapped by a shadowy group calling themselves the Vespers.

Amy and Dan have been given only days to fulfill the ransom request to keep these hostages from being killed one by one. Amy and Dan don't know what the Vespers want or how to block their evil plan.

Only one thing seems clear. The Vespers are playing to win, and if they get their hands on the formula, the world will be their next hostage.

As the Cahills work their way to the solution of the mystery, their deductive reasoning skills help to bring about a successful resolution to their problems. This great young people's read, which I too enjoyed, was recommended to me by Lachlan Colville. Taken from the young reader's section of old Kirby Church bookstore. Open every Saturday until November 30.
